this country a liberal support of the Enterprise, which they have so long and so cheaply furnished, feeling sure that no expenditure for library matter will yield so rich a return as

Letter From Gallimpher.
TRUXTON'S SPRING, ARIZONA.
[December 10th, 1873.]
Editor Examiner:
Some quaint people may inquire why it is that I write this letter, for I feel just as if I should break down in the middle of every sentence, but you know if we should all be governed by the thoughts of others that we would have to be forty-lamed in most things we do, and yet not please ourselves.
Times are too dull to write anything about them, while the weather—well, it has been snowing and raining for seven days and nights alternately, and the prospect for better weather are gloomy. I have not seen the sun for so many days that I am afraid some Joshua is having the thing to stand still. While I write I can look out upon the "beautiful snow" and call to memory the days of my boyhood, when we used to dig snow balls at the girls, and slide down the steep banks on a board. Ah! what fun that!
And then to set a dead-fall to catch snow birds, and chase the jacksn rabbits with the greyhounds.
But, then, some of these unfortunate calamities that afflict the juvenile race would often happen to disturb the peaceful pleasures, and somebody would retire from the field of frolic and fun with a bruise and bleeding nose. Of course, then, an indulgent father or fond mother would appear upon the scene and drive the victorious party into some neighboring thicket.
This may, to some, appear like foolishness, and, perhaps, it is, but I cannot keep memory from bringing it up, nor do I wish to prevent it; for from this we know that we once were boys, and that we often received, as we often deserve it, a good drubbing. "Why is it," one will ask, "that he don't write some news?" Why, my dear friend, I am placed where, at the present time, I am unable to communicate with many of the world's inhabitants; I am surrounded by mountains, tall and lumbering, deep canyons and huge boulders.
The scenery is wild and inspiring, and makes us smile with admiration at the magnificent works of nature. I am not a hermit, but I remain here, forty miles from the nearest post-office, but the "circumstances" are liable to cause a "body" to do almost anything.
I would apologize for getting off this state thing, but I know that if you were hemmed in with snow blockades you would exercise your brain to write away a dull hour. The 3rd is more than I have done. I promise a better one another day.
GALLIMPHER.

Th e Latest.
Thomas Scott was addressed recently on the subject of the affairs of the Texas Pacific Railroad by the citizens of San Diego through their agent in this city. The San Diego people are alarmed lest an extension of time should be asked for the completion of the route now in progress at the Pacific terminus. They were also anxious to learn the prospects for legislation by Congress in the interest of the company. Colonel Scott authorized the sending, in his name, of the following dispatch:
"Prospect for legislation good. No extension will be asked for."
It is understood that no definite plan for action has yet been agreed upon, but a number of bills are in process of preparation, to be submitted to him for approval; the main object being to promote the means to obtain government aid in disposing of railroad bonds, and to secure the government for all disbursements.
It is authoritative that the Northern Pacific has agreed to leave the field to the Southern Pacific, at least for the present session.
New York, Jan. 3.—There was a very dense fog this morning, which seriously interfered with all the river traffic on East River.
The ferryboat Clinton collided with a tugboat, receiving damages to the amount of fifteen hundred dollars.
Several lady passengers fainted, but no one was hurt.
The preparation of the Virginian correspondence will be completed to-morrow and may be sent to Congress on Monday. It is represented to be voluminous.
Evans, proprietor of the London Hour, is dead.
Cincinnati, N.H., Jan. 2.—The account of the Treasurer of the Savings Bank of Concord are confused to the amount of $60,000.
An official denial is given in London, to the story that the English Government has demanded the punishment of Burriel.
As the congregation was leaving a church in Walcot, Ind., on Sunday evening last a coal oil lamp exploded setting fire to the clothing of a girl thirteen years of age. A stampede took place, in which windows were broken and the doors blocked. While every body was trying to save himself, the poor girl was fatally burned.

We are glad to meet in our town

Harney, sometime Senator from the Waco District, and for thirty years a useful citizen of Texas.—Billus Her-
